

Spaces

in the Noel Studio

The Noel Studio space is designed to help you think critically and creatively about your communication projects.

What can I do in the Noel Studio?

- Work alone, in small groups, or with a highly-trained consultant to brainstorm, draft, or refine communication projects in an interactive, high-energy environment
- Adjust multiple high-tech and low-tech spaces to accommodate diverse learning styles, communication projects, and collaborative groups
- Move furniture to create your own ideal environments for designing effective communication

Invention Space

Brainstorm ideas visually on wall-to-wall dry-erase boards

Collaborate with peers in small and large groups

Outline and organize on the Kapp Board, then save your work to a flash drive or through the smartphone app.

Use low-tech manipulatives--like Legos, Play-Doh, and writeable, magnetic tiles--to design creative prototypes or "think with your hands"

Breakout Spaces

Reserve with or without a consultant to plan and refine group communication projects

Rehearse and record group presentations

Reduce speech anxiety by inviting a few friends or classmates to act as your audience as you practice presentations

Practice Room

Reserve with or without a consultant to plan and refine individual communication projects

Rehearse and record individual presentations

Media Wall

Interact with multiple components of your communication projects at once.

Bring a laptop to connect to large monitor to better visualize your personal project.
